

NICOMACHEAN BOOK VI

Juan Carlos V. Soriano & Don Lean B. Sanchez

- The weighing of righteous yet harmful acts and desire-filled actions that will lead to savory victories
- Also describes that there are 5 states in which the soul grasps.

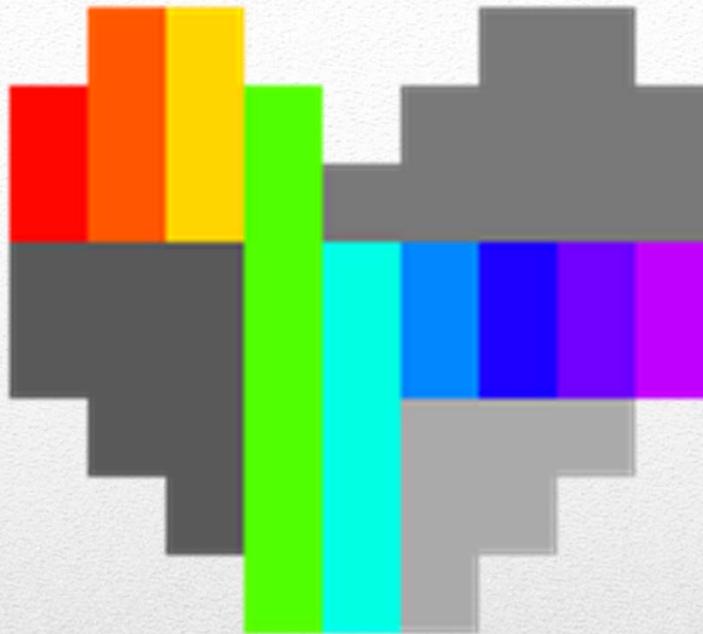

Chapters 1 - 8

The act of doing something good but in the sense of hurting someone and doing desire-filled actions; The act of doing something out of desires but still result to victorious results

Chapters 1 - 2

Also describes that there are 5 states in which the soul grasps. scientific knowledge, craft knowledge, prudence, wisdom, and understanding.

Also included how relationships can start something revolutionary.

Chapters 3 - 8

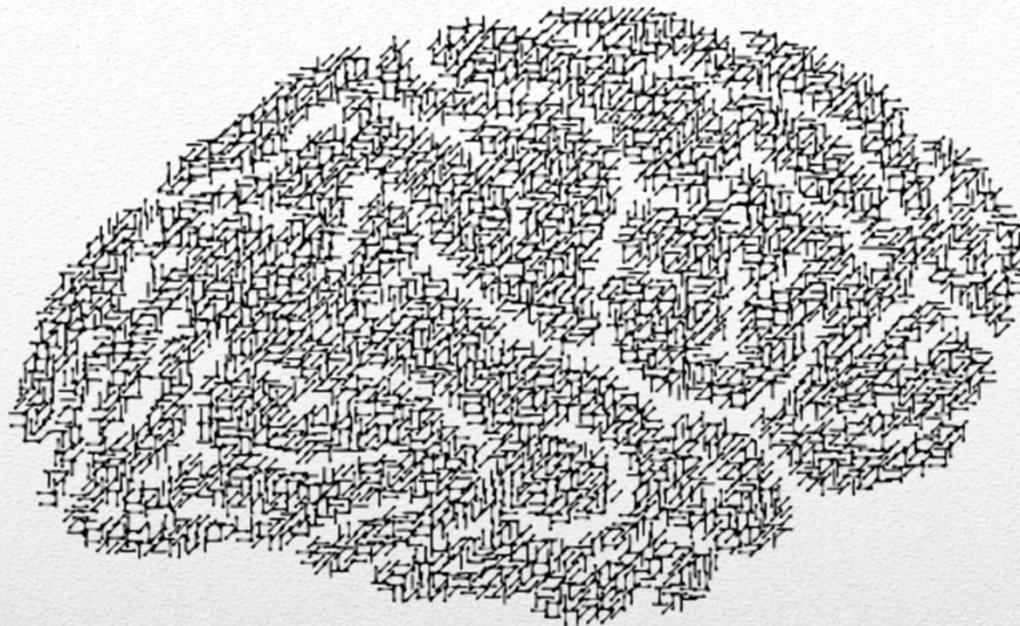

CONCLUSION!!

I ❤️ Prudence

Prudence takes time to develop because it is gained by experience. Prudence is opposed to intuition, since intuition is concerned with meanings on which does not deliberate. Deliberation is a type of study.

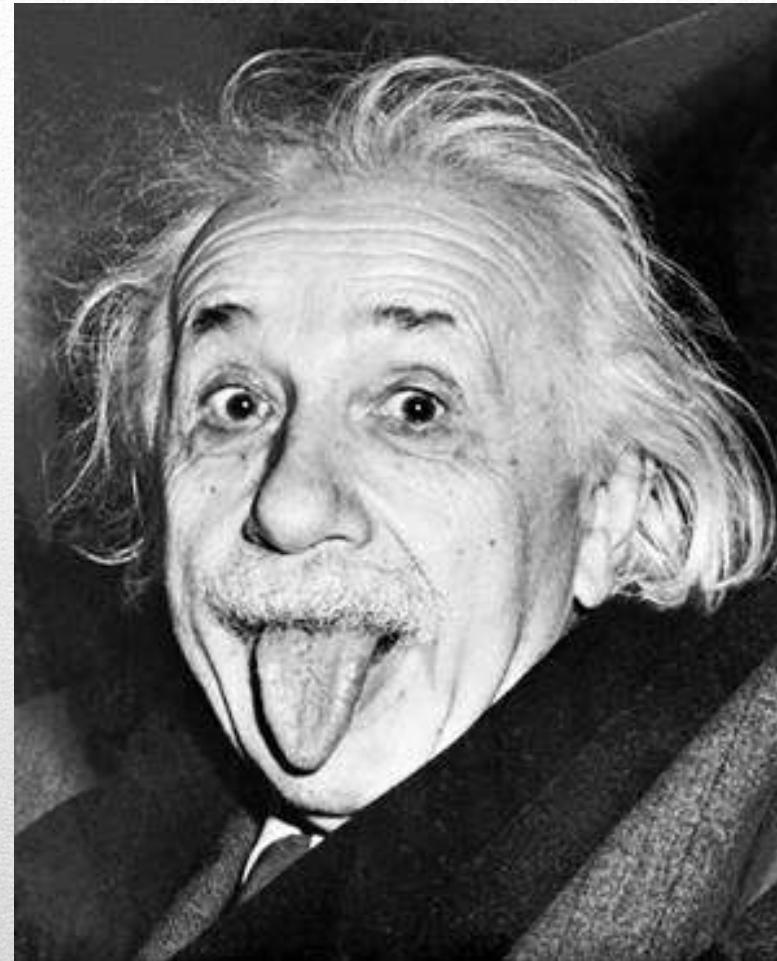

Chapters 9 - 10

Intelligence and prudence are both concerned with the same type of object, but they are not the same. Wisdom and prudence are worthy of decision for their own sake since they each correspond to a virtue of the soul's corresponding part.

Cleverness or shrewdness helps one to operate and manage on the means to an end. For a man who is not good, the correct end may not be apparent because bad habit may corrupt him.

Chapters 11 - 13

CONCLUSION!!
